

LeadingAge PA has selected Susan Cooper Drabic as the recipient of its most prestigious award, the Paul P. Haas Distinguished Lifetime Achievement Award. This award serves to recognize the ‘best of the best’ within our industry and is presented to a leader who has demonstrated exemplary leadership and service commitment to the LeadingAge association to positively impact and advance aging services for older adults. LeadingAge PA is the leader in advocacy and innovation in aging services and part of the national LeadingAge organization. Morningstar Living has been a member of LeadingAge PA for over three decades.

For over thirty years, Sue’s career has been dedicated to improving the quality of lifestyle choices, health care services and programs for older adults. She is a visionary who is constantly researching and acquiring information and knowledge about the changing needs and desires of the people we serve. Sue has led the organization through many land development and redevelopment initiatives to build and improve housing, amenities and health care services for older adults. What set Sue apart from other candidates for this amazing recognition is the role she played and continues to play in advancing services for seniors throughout the state of Pennsylvania.
